

Bogdan ȘTEFANACHI is PhD. Habil. Associate Professor at the Faculty of Philosophy and Social-Political Sciences, Political Science, International Relations and European Studies Department, Al. I. Cuza University of Iași. He graduated from the Faculty of Philosophy, Al. I. Cuza University of Iași, with a major in Philosophy (1998) and another one in Political Science (2001). In 2004,

Bogdan ȘTEFANACHI obtained his master's degree in European Studies – European Political Integration and, in 2005, he was the beneficiary of a Nicolae Titulescu fellowship of the Romanian Government at Warwick University, U.K. Starting from 2006, he holds the title of Doctor Magna cum Laude in Philosophy.

He is the coordinator of the Conflict Management Department within The Center for Regional Security Studies, Al .I. Cuza University of Iași, editor of the Scientific Annals of Alexandru Ioan Cuza University of Iași (New Series) Political Science and assistant editor of Logos and Episteme. He is the author of the books European Integration – Evolution and Political Transformations, Legitimation of Political Power, Philosophy of the New Economy – Legitimation Mean of Liberalism, European Union Structures and Policies. A Learning and Teaching Guide, as well as of numerous scientific articles and studies in collective volumes, in the fields of international relations, international security and political theory.